Thought for Today

When I am down and, oh, my soul, so weary;
 When troubles come and my heart burdened be;
 Then I am still and wait here in the silence,
 Until you come and sit awhile with me.

EXPERIENCE THE TRANSFORMATION!

People's confidence have been shattered by the wide spread uncertainty in the natural world. My own view is that we are experiencing a sign of the last days. Although, I agree with those who believe that the uncertainty is due to climate change, I will maintain that something more is happening. For example, the successive increase in intensity of storms and heat for the last fifteen years cannot be dismissed as just a natural occurrence . It has become common today to dismiss any connection between the natural world and spiritual world. The Apostle Paul writes to the Romans, " For we know that the whole creation groans and travails in pain together until now (Rom. 8:22)." Any one familiar with the destructive forces of nature, should agree that there is more uncertainty to come until the creation is delivered. The certainty of the second coming of Christ will deliver the creation and return certainty when the meek inherits the new earth. Even so come Lord Jesus. Happy Sabbath to all .

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

The church family would like to wish Josephe Santil a very happy birthday. She celebrated on September 28th.
